Creative Thinker / Web Developer

ABOUT ME

I am an adaptable, curious, and determined person who has learned many skills in my career working in a wide variety of jobs but I am looking to pursue a long-term career in tech. I am very excited about how it can challenge me creatively, academically and professionally by being such a continually evolving industry.

My career so far has been retail focused and one of my key roles was Store Manager leading a team at an electronics company for over 6 years. Most recently I worked in sales at Mitre 10 but I have since left there and I have just finished studying Web Development and Coding through the Enspiral Dev Academy. I graduated in mid-December with a love for web development and a keen interest in frontend design and content creation.

Outside of work I have a huge interest in music and pop culture and I have a dream to one day start a podcast because I've always loved to talk. I originally did my studies in 2001, completing two Radio courses, one in foundation skills and the other in radio announcing majoring in radio news, and one Film & Television course. Back then I was unable to secure a good opportunity in broadcasting in a workable timeframe so out of income necessity I shifted into a career in Electrical and Technology retail. I made sure to always keep my work in line with my passions, but retail has never been my chosen career and now I look forward to seeing how I can explore those passions in the tech industry.

I am based in Christchurch with my wife and young family but I am open to remote work where needed.
